

Around the Farm

Summer is bustling and happy at Beth-haran. Harvest time has begun. Last week we put up blueberries for the year and also canned plum products. The first event of our day is watering our garden and bringing in God's bountiful harvest. We also care for the animals, milk the goats and bring in the eggs. This wakes us up enough to come before the Lord with more of ourselves than just a yawn.

We have begun putting a new roof on our house. Everyone is pitching in. We start work early in the morning as we have encountered many wasps nests underneath the shingles. The morning hours are cool and the little pests are not fully awake.

In June our daughter, Elisabeth, flew in from South Korea for two months. It has been wonderful to have her back. She will be returning to South Korea at the end of August. This year, instead of teaching English, she will be going to full time language school to learn Korean.

Our daughter, Rebekah will be leaving in September to be on staff in Summit Semester's three month discipleship program. She will be serving as women's director and mentor. Summit Semester prepares Christian young people to defend their faith and love what is good, true and beautiful.

Amy Horn, who faithfully with us for some time, has recently returned home to visit before she leaves for full time missions work in Mongolia. She has been an invaluable help here and we all have been touched by her example of love and service. We will miss these women but rejoice that God has work for them in very needy parts of the world!
